

TEST THE IVF FILM

a short film about a long process

About the Director

Courtney Lamb (courtneylamb.com) is a director, writer and actor who specializes in the intimate short films about cringeworthy subjects: estranged families, awkward funerals, bridal showers, beer, and panda suits.

She met Melissa back in The Aughts when they were castmates in a weekly sketch comedy show that performed in Hollywood.

Courtney is currently studying History at CGU, and she lives in LA with her family and two elderly cats.

The Story Melissa Okey tells the story of her 4 years of trying to get pregnant after the age of 40, including 18 months of infertility treatments. In monologues and recreations, we join Melissa on her surreal, painful, ridiculous, confusing, and heartbreaking quest.

The Blog The screenplay was adapted from Melissa's hilarious and poignant blog IN SEARCH OF THE ELUSIVE PINK LINE (melissaaokey.wordpress.com).

The Audience This film is for people experiencing or fearing infertility and those undergoing or considering IVF or other assisted reproductive technologies. It's also for their friends and family, to help them better understand this mysterious process and get a realistic sense of how it affects the people undergoing treatment.

IG @testivffilm | testivffilm.com

contact@testivffilm.com